

I believe the radio interference created by the BPL technology over a massive spectrum negates its usefulness as an alternative methodology for internet distribution.